

OPEN BIDS FOR MODERN WHARF AT KAMEHAMEHA

Hawaiian Dredging Company
Is Lowest of Three Bidding Firms

The Hawaiian Dredging Company was lowest of three bidders today when tenders were opened at the contracting quartermaster's office for the big concrete wharf at Fort Kamehameha. Bids were as follows:

Hawaiian Dredging Company, $21,923, in 120 working days; Lord-Young Engineering Company, $27,834, in 180 working days; J. L. Young, $30,000, in 280 days. The Hawaiian Dredging Company is thus lowest in both time and money offers.

The new wharf is to be large enough and will extend far enough out to allow mine planters to come alongside and take on or discharge cargo. It will be modern in every detail, of reinforced concrete and 200 by 20 feet in dimensions. In addition to this there will be a retaining wall constructed 720 feet in length, and lined on the sea side with concrete.

Concrete piles with wooden centers 10 feet apart will hold up the wharf, and these will be driven down deep enough into the mud to form a solid foundation.

As a result of puncturing his thumb with an instrument he was using in filling a patient's tooth, Dr. Frank Timmerman, of Chicago, died of blood poisoning.

BOARD APPOINTS SUMMER SCHOOL TEACHING STAFF

Cyril O. Smith is Selected as Director; Institution Will Open Early in July

After two days of strenuous work the territorial school commissioners closed their annual meeting yesterday afternoon by appointing the faculty for the 1916 summer school, which will begin early in July.

The summer school faculty will consist of the following teachers:

Cyril O. Smith, director.
Shop, E. Allan Creevey; domestic science, Mrs. J. N. Oremba; agriculture, G. W. Sahr; mathematics, J. A. Wilson; history, Miss Clara Stevenson; hygiene, Miss E. Frances McCreary; drawing and story work, Mrs. Lilla G. Marshall; methods, T. H. Gibson. The instructors in geography and English probably will be appointed tomorrow by Henry W. Kinney.

Thirty-seven additional teachers have been added to the staff of the department. One of the biggest items of business at the annual meeting was the appointment of teachers for the coming school year. Superintendent Kinney tomorrow expects to make public half of the Oahu list of teachers, the list of Kauai teachers and a portion of the Hawaii list.

GETS THREE MONTHS FOR BEATING GIRL

Brutality of the basest sort was the charge made by the prosecution in police court today against D. Sabas, a Filipino, who was given three months for beating Romano Rodriguez, a Porto Rican girl.

"He beat her up about as bad five months ago," said Chillingworth to the judge, "and then threatened to kill her if she complained to the police."

PERSONALITIES

WILLIAM H. HEEN, deputy attorney-general, is absent from the Capitol on a trip to Hilo.

DR. H. L. ROSS, government physician in South Kona, Hawaii, is in the city for a few days on business connected with his office.

WILL WAYNE, formerly special agent for the department of public works, began his duties this morning as secretary to the governor.

S. M. KANAKANUI, assistant government surveyor, has been instructed from the local office to make a survey of the recent flows on Mauna Loa, measuring them in width, height and elevation and locating them on the new island group map.

D. S. BOWMAN, member of the territorial board of health, who went to Washington to attend the thirty-first annual meeting of the boards of health of North America, writes President J. S. B. Pratt that the work there proved very interesting. The meetings were held on May 16 and 17.

DIVINE HEALING TOLD IN LECTURE

A large audience listened with interest as Evangelist McCord spoke last night on the subject of "Divine Healing." The evangelist said in part:

"Physical healing may or may not be divine healing.

"There is another class of patients whose illness is purely imaginary. Many of these people claim to have been healed when in reality they have not been ill. All these people need to do is to grasp the fact that they are well; so-called miracles of healing have thus been accomplished.

"Notwithstanding these bogus affairs, there is such a thing as divine healing, and this healing is based on the scripture found in James 5:14, 15. When these conditions have been followed and men have agreed to the conditions of God's word—that we are to say, 'Thy will be done,' healing has always followed.

"The Seventh day Adventist church believes in divine healing. I could speak of instances where patients have been cured from consumption."

The lecture for tonight will be, "The Road to Wellville." An intensely interesting health lecture will be given by the trained nurses, as well as a practical demonstration of hydrotherapy.

ARREST SWEENEY AS HE DEPARTS FOR MAINLAND

Well-Known Cartoonist Held to Court on Error Barrel
Catches Steamer

Old Man Hard Luck started Dan Sweeney the other day and on his trail did not let up until Sweeney was on the Matsonia today ready to sail for his home. When the Evil One will let the Harrier alone now remains to be seen. "Just as likely I will slip on the way home and sprain my ankle, if nothing worse," said Sweeney in a cheery tone shortly before the boat slipped away.

Sweeney is a free-lance artist, man, cartoonist and journalist. 12 years he was in the art department of the San Francisco Examiner, getting back to the hard luck.

Mrs. Sweeney accompanied him. They have been here about three weeks, staying at the Seaside swimming lots, sketching some down color notes for future folding-Hawaii. Old Sol was careless enough to pass out an sailed case of sunburn to Mrs. Sweeney. She was confined to her room for several days. Many of the contemplated trips were abandoned; an auto, Slack been a chartered for one trip—discharged. There was nothing but stay home in the cooling shed.

Dan had been to the volcano; he the big eruption came he wanted to go again; the wife was recovering from the burns and told him to go; but that her and had a fine time; when he came back he found her sick in bed with sunburn but some other such fiction which had brought in the congressmen on the run.

With a large bandana Dan wiped his dew-damp brow and prayed that the Matsonia to come in before useless bricks from the new addition of Moana fell off the roof and killed him. Feverishly he packed the trunk. Sweeney recovered sufficiently the day that she would make the trip. It was all over at last and they were going home; the night passed quite uneventfully. Then the morning came—

Dan was "pinched!" It all came about from the fact that he was chartered for one of the side home and never used. The driver of the car was entitled to his fee or, Mr. Mateo, it and went to court instead of stay Sweeney to settle the dispute. Sweeney appeared in court this morning with leis and still smiling. Sweeney was either going to jail or to sail "Aloha" around his neck.

It was a quarter of ten. The ship left on the hour. He was the whistle blowing. Down is even was Mrs. Sweeney, bundle in hand, wondering whether she was best at a dinner on board that day. The Menlo Dan would take his meal yesterday, sheriff's forces.

There was a hurried luncheon of Sweeney's many friends. He gave a case was explained to Prothonotary a few lingworth. The whistle blew and she from the Matsonia; Sweeney had the eye on the judge the other of Christ-door. It was a case of minute Sunday. "There is absolutely no set Dillingham continuing this charge," declared hand-prosecution to the court. "I am Friedman it be stricken."

Dan grabbed his hat with one finger of the alms; disappointed driver, the let-enveloped one down the steps into a waiting motor. There was a wild dash to the another up the gangway. In a minute Dan was waving from the band played; then Dan still smiling as he clutched Mrs. Sweeney.

"I'm coming back some day, out."
